Information

Introduction
The importance of managing critically ill patients in a neurosurgical unit cannot be over emphasised. The responsibility of looking after these patients and recognising any change in their clinical state is primarily left in the hands of the junior doctors on the wards. This course is aimed at junior neurosurgical trainees (ST1–ST3) who are not only involved in the care of neurosurgical patients, but at the same time with progression in career would be asked for advice by more junior foundation trainees or hospital nurse practitioners.
